Correction to Article in “Globes – Israel’s Business Arena”

Elsight Limited (ASX: ELS, “Elsight” or the “Company”) a leading Israeli secure communications technology company advises that “Globes – Israel’s Business Arena” online, had published late yesterday an English translation of an earlier article, originally published in Hebrew, “Australia discovers Elsight”.

However, a typographical error in the translation incorrectly stated that the Company had incurred losses of US $1.5 billion dollars in the first half of 2017. This should have been US $1.5 million as per the Company’s half-year financial statements lodged with the ASX on 31 August 2017. The loss of US $1.5 million was after accounting for one-off expenses associated with the Company’s listing on the ASX.

The Company has contacted the publisher “Globes” and they have agreed to correct the error first thing this morning Israel time.

Other than this typographical error, the Company is pleased to have received coverage by Israel’s most important daily business publication and is delighted that Elsight is attracting such recognition.
